POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

There are more "ifs" in this story than in Kipling's poem, but if the voters dispose of the ifs, California, by the end of 1944, may have both a new Governor and a new Lieutenant Governor—and the two may be one and the same, strange as that may seem!

This situation, with its curious complications and qualifications, stems from the fact that Governor Earl Warren may be headed for national honors before the year is out, and from the added fact that Lieutenant Governor Houser who would normally succeed him, has ambitions of his own and may try for election to the United States Senate.

Governor Warren, to be sure, insists he is not a candidate for either President or Vice President, and that the use of his name to head a GOP presidential slate in California is just another case of a man coming to the aid of his party. But despite all that, he is much talked about in national circles as a likely man for second place on the national ticket if either Bricker or Dewey should become the Republican Party nominee for President.

Now here come the "ifs" in profusion:

If Mr. Warren should be nominated for either President or Vice President at the Republican National Convention in June, and if he should there after be elected at the General Election in November, he would thereupon resign his present office as Governor of California.

Then, if Lieutenant Governor Houser was available, he would automatically step up to become Acting Governor and would serve until the next regular gubernatorial election—in 1946.

But if, in the meatime, Mr. Houser should run for the Republication nomination for U. S. Senator, and if he should win that nomination, and if he should carry on in the finals and succeed in beating silver-tongued Sheridan Downey, then he, too, would resign his present office—and that would leave California without either a Governor or a Lieutenant Governor.

When all those "ifs" are disposed of, there then comes another big if in any conjecture to determine what happens next. If Mr. Houser should resign as Lieutenant Governor a few days or a few hours before Mr. Warren tendered his resignation as Governor, then Mr. Warren would have the right to appoint the new Lieutenant Governor—and this lucky fellow would step up to become Acting Governor as soon as Mr. Warren packed his grips and left for Washington.

But if Mr. Houser should not resign until Mr. Warren resigned, and the two left office simultaneously, then the President Pro Tem of the State Senate would step up to become Lieutenant Governor—and take another big stride right into the Governor's Mansion. And if that were slated to happen, what a fight there'd be in the State Senate next January to determine who the boys would elect as the President Pro Tem!

Country Woman's Club Enjoys Talk By S. P. Official

The Country Woman's club held its regular meeting Jan. 17, at 2:30 at the club rooms. Mrs. Willard H. Van Dyke, president, presided at the business meeting, after which Mrs. Frank Blair, chairman of the day, introduced Warren Jones of Willow Glen, pupil of Homer DeWitt Pugh, who sang several solos accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Pugh.

The speaker of the day was Joseph W. Ostle, district freight and passenger agent of Southern Pacific in San Jose, whose subject was "Railroads in Wartime" and who gave many interesting facts and figures regarding the handling of traffic and freight in 1942-43-44 in comparison to same in World War One, and which has been handled so efficiently at this time, although handicapped by less equipment than in 1918, but which, he said, is largely due to the splendid cooperation of the various railroad companies, its clients and workers. He suggested that all refrain from travelling via train as much as possible for the duration.

The approach of spring was heralded with a bowl of Chinese lilies, while the presence of winter was evidenced with pine boughs and sprays of loquat leaves.

The committee assisting Mrs. Blair was Mrs. Charles Simonds, Mrs. H. W. Jensen, Mrs. W. C. Elkey, Mrs. R. G. Archibald and Mrs. E. F. Whistler.

Register Now At Farley Real Estate Office

The G. E. Farley real estate office is now open for registration of voters for those who have changed their residence either as to locality or precinct, and those becoming 21 years of age by election day.

Also any who did not vote at one or the other of the two elections held in August and November, 1942, must re-register to be entitled to vote.

Voters must have lived in California one year and in the county 90 days by the day of the presidential primary on May 2.

Registration may also be made in Room 1 at the county court house.

Effie Goodrich of Campbell was accepted recently by the WAC recruiting office in San Jose.

Visitors were Lieut. John Talia, Corporal and Mrs. Becker, Rev. Edwin Bowling, Earl King of San Jose, David Sanders, David Rutherford, J. M. McKinnon and Maurice Moore.

Next week Judge John D. Foley will be the speaker with Martin Walsh, chairman.

INVEST IN VICTORY

A FEW WEEKS AGO Lieutenant Commander "Butch" O'Hare, the flyer who tumbled five Jap planes out of the sky in one day, vanished in the Pacific while trying to send more fighters of the Son of Heaven "down to earth."

More recently, Major Gregory Boyington, one of America's three all-time "Ace of Aces," with 26 Jap skywagons notched on his gun, followed O'Hare into the land of silence.

When we read of these men we feel as if something within us dies with them. We think—If there were only something I could have done to save them.

Wishing doesn't help. But we can do much to protect those who are still carrying on. Putting every last cent we can spare into War Bonds is one way of doing it. Only by doing our full share—and more—can we be worthy of such men. We must buy Bonds not only to supply ammunition and equipment for the O'Hares and Boyingtons still fighting "out there" but to prevent inflation so that these men will not have to come back to a country laid low by econmic chaos which inflation would create.

Now with the Fourth War Loan under way, it should be our privilege to back it to the limit. As in the past, business and industry will give their all-out support. In fact, business and industry have never stopped backing the sale of War Bonds since they were first sold. One California institution alone has sold approximately $800 million in small War Bonds to the public since Pearl Harbor.

This is one of the most outstanding records of any single organization in the United States. But sales records such as these, and the greater records that must be made, cannot be accomplished solely on the efforts of the organizations selling Bonds. The public must respond with its dollars—especially in this Drive where the quota for individuals is $5½ billion.

Thousands of O'Hares and Boyingtons—America's finest young men—have invested their lives in victory. Certainly we can invest our dollars.

POST-WAR HOUSEKEEPING

Does the rude ringing of the alarm clock jar you out of your good humor, as well as your sleep? If it does, be patient. Better days are ahead. Post-war alarm clocks won't "alarm" you—rather they will "serenade" you each morning with pleasant musical tones.

This type of clock is one of the many new gadgets Mrs. America wants when manufactourers can make them. She has also expressed herself, through urveys, as wanting appliance that will take much of the "work" out of houework.

It all indicates that Mrs. America wants to share more fully in the benefits made available by modern invention. We can't blame her. She has already seen how improved methods have greatly eased her shopping problems. She knows that progressive ideas used in the development of labor-saving appliance will simplify her chores and enable her to broaden her interests and activities in other directions.

If Mrs. America gets her way—and she usually does—tomorrow's housekeeping methods will be as far from those of today as the North Pole is from the South Pole—and that is all the difference in the world.

TOKEN-PACKING MAMMAS

If the lady of the house looks a bit grim toward the end of next month; if she counts absent-mindedly on her fingers, and if her purse bulges with a new kid of wampum as she sallies forth to market—then you'll know you've got a token-packing mamma! There's nothing to get too alarmed about, though, because the lady next door and the lady across the street will be in the same category. And it's a good thing the women folks still have a lot of gumption, and over-size purses, or else a lot of men might have to blaze their own trails in learning about how to bring home the bacon with tokens.

Tokens—the small change of the ration business—will begin flowing into circulation throughout the country February 27. Slightly smaller than a dime, they wil be worth one point each. They will be given as change by retailers for ration stamps—red tokens being used in meat purchases, and blue for processed foods. The reason for the tokens, it appears, is to simplify the ration sytem, but that's a tender point we won't go into, except to report that OPA estimates with the use of tokens Ration Book Four will last about two years. And at least three books would be required during this period without tokens, according to the OPA communiques.

Also, from February 27 on, ration stamps—each with a 10-point value regardless of the number appearing on the coupon—will be validated on an across the book basis instead of on an up and down basis as at present. Three meat stamps, worth a total of 30 points, will become valid every two weeks, with the first two series of six stamps remaining valid until May 20. Tokens, given as change will have no expiration dates.

If this isn't all clear, wait until the new kind of wampum has been in cirnulation a few days—and then ask your token-packing mamma—she'll know the answer!

CLOSE SHAVE

When our airmen were helping to drive the Germans out of North Africa they would fly through a hail of enemy lead and come back without blinking an eyelash. But when they had to face a North African barber they trembled.

Reason? When one of those barbers shaves you, it is hard to believe he is using a razor—you're convinced it is a hack-saw. The use of cold water, instead of hot helps convey this impression. These tonsorial technicians employ not only their hands but one knee—placed squarely on the stomach of the victim until the "execution" is completed.

The ceremony is free of conversation since the barbers don't "spik" English. However, this proves a disadvantage when you want to enquire what has become of the side fo your face he has just finished.

No wonder the boys were tickled to get back into the air where they had only the blast of enemy bullets and shells to contend with.

LABOR DRAFT?

On the same day that President Roosevelt made his call on Congress for a universal labor draft, Senator Truman of the Senate's War Investigating committee warned that more than eight billion dollars in war contracts already have been cancelled; that some communities will soon be faced with "a serious unemployment problem"—and that "during the coming year you will see newspaper notices of contract cancellations, of plant shutdowns, of elimination of graveyard shifts, and of reduction in employes."

As the only real justification for a labor draft would seem to be a shortage of labor, it would appear that the paramunt question before Congress isn't what labor thinks of the draft, what business thinks of it, the farmer thinks of it, or anybody else thinks of it— but rather, IS THERE ANY NEED FOR IT? If there isn't, then for goodness sake let's skip all the argument and get on with the job of winning the war.

AUTO LICENSE WARNING

Don't put off applying for your 1944 automobile license—February 4 is the deadline. After that date, the cost doubles.

And don't wait until you get a notice from Sacramento because no such notice will be sent out. It is up to you to take your white ownership slip to a branch of the Motor Vehicle Department, or mail the slip along with a check for the amount due either to a branch or to the Sacramento office.

The amount you owe is the same as last year and it appears in the lower left-hand corner of your white slip. Service stations are also displaying charts which will give you this information.

Remember—February 4 the deadline. If you don't apply for your new tags on or before that date—a motor cop will tag you!

Tankers
This is a war of petroleum. Not a tank could roll, not a plane could fly and not a gun could fire without it.
The first petroleum was carried in barrels aboard ships. In 1886 the English developed a bulk tanker which could unload in three days instead of a month.
American longshoremen protested and petitioned Congress to halt the building of tankers.

The type continued to increase, however so that at the beginning of this war we had one-fourth of the world's tankers.

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

"Victoria Grandolet" by Henry Bellamann.

Victoria was but a youngster when she arrived at "White Cloud." Niles Grandolet brought her there as his bride after a courtship of only ten days. "Vicky" was a Yankee. But the civil war was over when she arrived in the south. Niles Gradolet, her husband, owned "White Cloud", a plantation of many thousands of acres located in Louisiana. Victoria was a beautiful girl. She was heavenly—a girl with blonde hair and milk white skin. She was clever, too, and cultured. Her father was a Protestant minister in New Hampshire. He was her fotser father. Victoria knew next to nothing about her parentage. Dr. Dunstan told her that he and his wife had taken her when she was but a year old and that they knew nothing about her birth. This fact puzzled her a great deal, but she did not want her husband to know that she was without ancestors, family history, etc. The Grandolets lived, loved, fought and died at White Cloud and their family history was a matter of record covering hundreds of years.

"White Cloud" frightened Victoria at first and it loomed before her senses as a startling challenge—a thing to be reckoned with and to be done with as she willed. Her father had once counciled her that "she could do anything she wished to do." That her power was within herself to govern her life's course.

Louisiana, its native beauties, its evasive and illusive terrain, its French and Spanish influences, was never more intensively and dramatically employed to paint a setting for a powerful and exciting novel.

Mr. Bellemann's prior success in the field of fiction, "King's Row," has a running mate in "Victoria Grandolet."

If you are in search of a book that will absorb you completely and help you dismiss the horrors of war briefly, this book is the answer to your problem.

Other Bible citations will include: "Shew me thy ways, O Lord; teach me thy paths. Lead me in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art the God of my salvation; on thee do I wait all the day," (Ps. 25: 4. 5).

Farmers May Apply for Crop And Feed Loans

Any farmer, either owner or tenant, who has insufficient collateral to obtain a loan from the production credit association or local bank, or whose operations or needs are not of sufficient size to make it practical to borrow there, is an eligible applicant for an Emergency Crop and Feed Loan. This announcement was made by W. L. Dawson, field supervisor of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office, Farm Credit Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The loans are primarily based upon the moral responsibility, the ability to produce and whether or not the applicant is an established farmer.

In the case of crop or seed loans, a first lien on the crop to be grown is taken as security. Loans are to be repaid from the sale of crops under mortgage. In the case of feed loans, a chattel mortgage is taken on the livestock to be fed. Repayment is to be made from the sale of livestock or products.

Further information can be obtained by writing or calling on Mrs. Elizabeth Elliott at 60 North Second street, San Jose.

L. S. Haligarth of San Jose, has entered the employ of the Campbell Press.

A slight explosion occurred in the lye vat at the Campbell Products company Monday. Four of the women were given emergency treatment at the hospital to have the lye thoroughly washed off to prevent any penetration of the skin.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Soutar returned last week from Long Beach, after spending a pleasant three weeks with their daughters and other relatives.

Ruth Cowles Letters

No post has come from you or anyone in the U. S. A. for perfect ages. I'm not worried, but it would be lovely to get a letter!

Recently I had a nasty experience with my car. I was traveling along the Pretoria road, almost home, when all of a sudden, directly in front of my car, out of the blackness, stepped a black cow. I was going about 35 miles an hour, for it is a straight stretch with no incoming roads, and so she did not give me a half a yard in which to miss her. What I did to her, I don't know, but what our impact did to my car cost the insurance company something like 23 pounds. O! I stopped immediately, and walked back to see what pieces were left, but the cow had walked off and joined companions in the dark, and having no torch I could not tell which one was the victim. I felt pretty much shaken that night, but had not a scratch or a bruise myself. It made me fairly sick to be without my car for the better part of the whole week! We had to arrange to take the midwives to cases at night by ambulance. Fortunately we did not have many or it would have cost a fortune. My car came back day before yesterday, and I feel as though I had my feet again. What a comfort and relief from the strain of fearing we might have night cases. Nobody knows how many miles "the Stork" as the "Messenger of Blessing" is now called, travels at night on maternity business.

This morning we entertained about 25 folk to tea here, girls representing five big schools in Johannesburg, who are interested in seeing work for natives, and the way natives live. The girls were thrilled to visit a yard, a very humble room where live two darling twins—Rachel and Rebecca—and a really lovely home of one of the native business men of the township. They also saw the new clinic buildings. It is an encouraging sign that a number of schools are annually giving an opportunity to some of their leading pupils to see various kinds of welfare work, and the work for natives is included.

New and great problems of readjustment and organization face us in the year 1944 and we do ask you all to unite your prayers with ours, that we may not lose the spirit, in the great growth of the body of his work which was started by the American board, and in which the board continues to have a large part. May the Christmas Season bring you all the inner joy which cannot be disturbed, no matter what outward things occur.

Worlds of love to each one of you dear friends,

Ruth C. Cowles.

P. S.—And all this generosity toward the black man means what? It means a growing call for fair play. It means also a "changing attitude toward the native."

And why all this? In part, because the Africans of all tribes have responded so splendidly to calls for help in the war. It means also the magnificent way in which they have conducted themselves upon the battlefields of North Africa, even to the giving of their lives.

Ballett, Two Plays Scheduled At Civic Auditorium

The Denny-Watrous management offers a glittering metropolitan week of attractions beginning Feb. 1. The Russian Ballet Theatre with its company of 125 and symphony orchestra comes on Feb. 1 as the second event of the San Jose Concert Series. "Swan Lake," "Lilac Garden" and "Mademoiselle Angot" make the program. Alicia Markova, the greatest of ballerinas, and Nana Gollner, one of the first three, with Dolin, Eglevsky, Chase, Kaye, Laing, Tudor, Petroff, Semenoff, Hightower, Karnilova, Reed, Alonso and Robbins, are among the many stars.

"Kiss and Tell," George Abbott's screamingly funny comedy, gives a single performance on the following Sunday evening, Feb. 6, with Katherine Alexander, Jack Davis, June Dayton and a sparkling Broadway cast. According to Life Magazine this racy comedy is "fresh and sparkling . . . Broadway's smash hit." It is still running in New York, Chicago and Boston, and just played ten weeks in San Francisco. San Jose will get it direct from the Biltmore Theatre, Los Angeles, where it is now playing.

The great Ethel Barrymore, "the world's greatest living actress," appears in Herman Shumlin's production of the prize-winning play "The Corn Is Green," on Monday night following, Feb. 7. The immortal Barrymore gave 475 performances in New York, and is returning to the coast with her original company after her spectacular success of last season. According to New York critics, Miss Barrymore is at her greatest in forty-two years of stardom in "The Corn Is Green."

Tickets for all events are on sale at the auditorium box office, Columbia 7087.

Through an error the name of Mrs. Ray Wood was omitted from the Red Cross posters now on display, and to correct any mistaken impression, Mrs. Wood is chairman of the garment making section of production, which includes sewing and knitting.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Smith were notified by the war department last Thursday that their son, Staff Sgt. George Thomas Smith, Jr., was reported missing in action over Germany since Dec. 19. Sgt. Smith has been in the Army Air Corps, radio operator-gunner on a B-17 for over a year.

St. Lucy's Women's club will hold its regular monthly card party on Friday afternoon, Jan. 28 at 2:15 at the parish hall. The public is cordially invited. The committee in charge is chairman, Mrs. J. Souto, Mrs. M. Mendoza, and Mrs. M. Vintro.

Another step towards world brotherhood brightens the horizon! It may be!

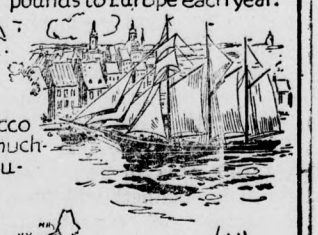
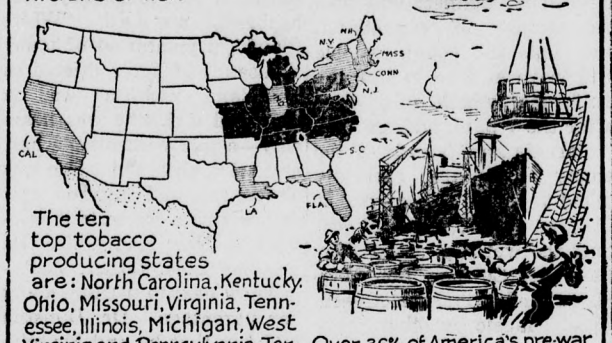
Our Merchant Marine

Tobacco Trade

Tobacco was America's first major export. Even before the Revolution we were shipping over 99,000,000 pounds to Europe each year.



American ships, running the blockade in the War of Independence, carried tobacco to France in exchange for much-needed guns and other munitions of war.



The ten top tobacco producing states are: North Carolina, Kentucky, Ohio, Missouri, Virginia, Tennessee, Illinois, Michigan, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. Ten other states, shown on shaded area on the map, also produce or process tobacco.

Over 36% of America's pre-war tobacco crop of 516,808,000 pounds was shipped to overseas ports, giving tobacco second place in our list of agricultural exports.
